The Protection of Pupil Rights Amendment (PPRA) affords certain rights to parents and students eighteen (18) years of age or older (“eligible students”) with regard to the surveying of students, the collection and use of information from students for marketing purposes, and certain non-emergency medical examinations.

DEFINITIONS

“Eligible student” means a student over the age of eighteen (18) or an emancipated minor under Idaho law.

“Instructional material” means material provided to a student, regardless of format, including printed or representational materials, audio-visual materials, and materials in electronic or digital formats (such as materials accessible through the Internet). This term does not include academic tests or academic assessments.

“Invasive physical examination” is defined as any medical examination that involves the exposure of private body parts, or any act during such examination that includes incision, insertion, or injection into the body, but does not include a hearing, vision, or scoliosis screening.

“Personal information” means individually identifiable information, including a student’s or parent’s first and last name; a home or other physical address (including a street name and the name of the city or town); a telephone number; or a social security number.

ANNUAL NOTIFICATION REQUIREMENTS

The PPRA requires that parents or eligible students be directly notified at least annually at the beginning of the school year, by direct mailing or e-mail, of their right to consent or opt-out of participation in certain school activities and the specific or approximate dates of each activity. For surveys and activities scheduled after the school year starts, parents will be provided with reasonable notification of the planned activities and surveys listed below and an opportunity to opt their child out of such activities and surveys.

7. Religious practices, affiliations, or beliefs of the student or student’s parent; or
8. Income (other than that required by law to determine eligibility for participation in a program or for receiving financial assistance under such program).
